night . . .

Many establishments in the Fulton area cater to the college student who by nature is nocturnal. Of course, Reeves Library has a sizable clientele. Winston's has become a Thursday night haunt. However, most academically oriented persons have perfected the art of the "study break." Seven-Eleven offers a wide selection of microwave delights. A new contender for late night cash is Domino's — now pizza is only a phone call away, 642-0991. Gasper's Truck Plaza remains the undisputed champion for promoting procrastination. Many regularly make the fifteen minute pilgrimage for "B & G's."

honorable mention

and then there were eleven

As the first class of women to have completed all four years at Westminster passed through the Columns May 15, 1983, a new tradition was established. Only a third of the original 'pioneers,' as they called themselves, remained. However, though small in number, these eleven have established a place for women in every area of the Westminster community. They have staked a claim for their sisters that follow.

t. r. tapped out

An establishment that has long been an institution for Westminster College, the Tap Room, weathered transition in 1983. Opened in 1947, The T. R. has remained a popular student and town bar. Many alums still return to The T. R. on any return visit to the campus. Although The T. R. is only moving across town, many mourn the loss of the atmosphere of the basement of the old Palace Hotel, its original location. The cigarette burned bar, the name etched walls and the vintage greasy mushrooms are now only things of the past ...

The theme of the 1983 Blue Jay is "The Album." Like any album in your collection it will be played frequently when new, but it will soon slip farther back on your shelf. There will be your favorite cuts that receive much play, others will only be appreciated in later years. Soon "The Album" will begin to collect dust and only be played occasionally to recall the sights and sounds of the past.

The title track of "The Album," this introductory section, is a medley of the academic year 1982-83. It portrays the events and people that shaped the news of the nation and the people and places that were Westminster. The headlines read like a "greatest hits" chart, the Night and Day pages show popular requests and the remaining pages play out the highlights of the year.

... In other National News ... Soviet troops are still engaged in Afghanistan, U.S. officials are calling it a "Russian Viet Nam," ... Mizzou Basketballers won the Big Eight title led by 6'11" center, Steve "Stipo" Stipanovich. MU lost in the NCAA Championship series to Iowa ... The price of gasoline dipped below $1 and an oil price war seems imminent. A five cent per gallon Federal tax took effect ... Unemployment hovered around 10%, but President Reagan said "Economic recovery is at hand," ... The two hour final episode of the TV series M*A*S*H pulled upwards of 75% of the viewing public, a television record ... Barney Clark, the first artificial heart recipient, died 112 days after the heart was implanted ... Finally, New Wave gained momentum among the youth of America and the movies 'Gandhi,' 'E. T.,' and 'Tootsie' were nominated for Best Picture ...

On campus in 1982-83 admissions standards and tuition were raised; however, applications are running ahead of recent years. None of the current students at Westminster can remember a time when the school was not coed; the first women to have completed all four years at Westminster graduated May 15, 1983. The powers that be continued to "improve the image of the college." Stiffer fines and regulations for living units having alcohol were imposed. Students swore that classes had become more difficult in the wake of more rigorous graduation requirements. "Blow it off" and "A fine liberal arts institution" remained popular phrases.

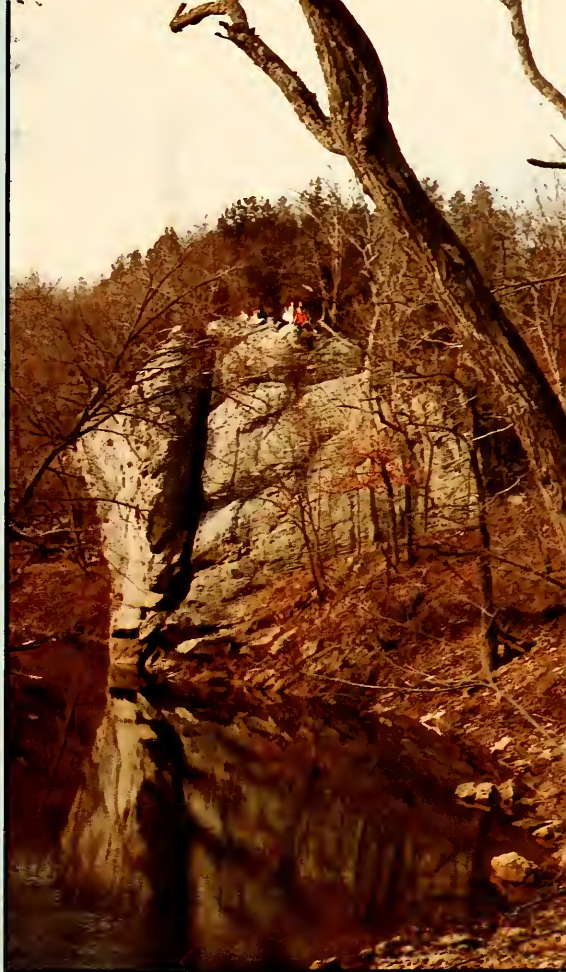

This album carries no money back guarantee, has no warranty and may be copied at your own risk. "The Album" is a record of the many facets of life at Westminster. It is dedicated to the men and women in the graduating Class of 1983.

Although the Westminster campus is actually quite small, it can become overwhelming at times. Students have found many outlets to "Get away from it all." Monitoring the construction of the Union Electric nuclear facility, visiting the "Crossroads of the world," trespassing at 'The Rock,' or basking in the pine filtered sunlight at 'The Pines' are popular escapes. The Spot Cafe and McDonald's offer opportunities for short getaways.

Some jokingly called the week of March 6, 1983, "A review of the beginning and a preview of the end." The week opened with the Religion in Life series focusing on the Creation and Evolution controversy. Prof. Langdon Gilkey, noted theologian, and Dr. Duane Gish, founder of the Creation Science Institute, presented opposing arguments. The 1983 Green Lecture closed the week. The Hon. Casper Weinberger, Secretary of Defense, spoke in favor of increased defense spending to counter the Russian Nuclear Threat.

celebration of sir christopher wren's 350th birthday

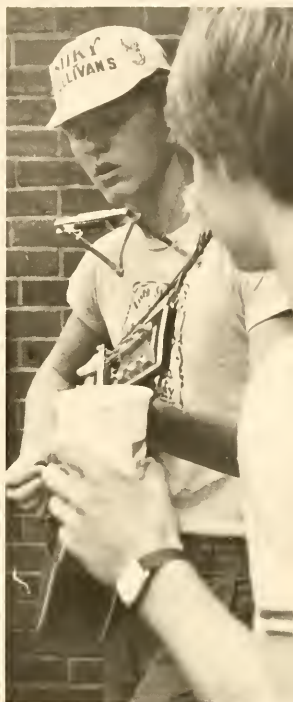

The Chapel of St. Mary the Virgin Aldermanbury continues to be a source of pride for the Westminster community. Westminster observed the 350th anniversary of the birth of the chapel's designer, Sir Christopher Wren, in a service honoring his memory and his work. Wren designed the chapel in 1666 and supervised its construction in the City of London, England. The chapel was partially destroyed by German bombs in World War II. During the late 1960s, it was transported and reconstructed on the Westminster campus. Finally in 1969, it was dedicated as a memorial to Sir Winston Churchill. Truly, if you seek Wren's monument, look around the Westminster campus.

WESTMINSTER COLLEGE

FULTON MISSOURI 65251

THE PRESIDENT

May 13, 1983

Dear Jim and Rob:

The people whose pictures appear in this Blue Jay - the students, faculty members, administrators, friends and other participants in our Academic Year - have all had an impact upon our college. At Westminster every person plays a role in shaping the life of the college, and every group - whether academic or extracurricular - has a profound effect on the future of Westminster.

The events depicted here, which are in some cases the collective activities of most if not all of our collegiate family, will reverberate far beyond the present. As part of the accumulated experiences of Westminster they will add to our strength.

Westminster is strong. With continued active participation in all aspects of our collegiate life by the many outstanding individuals one meets in this annual, Westminster will prosper and grow in service in the years ahead.

Sincerely,

J. Harvey Saunders
J. Harvey Saunders
President

JHS/sje

Completing his sixth year as President of Westminster, Dr. J. Harvey Saunders continues to honor the traditions that made the college strong and build financial security for the future. The duties of the president included greeting visiting dignitaries, maintaining strong relationships with contributing corporations, and refining college policies. Interaction with students is Dr. Saunder's primary goal, however. His participation in campus events from retaining his position as captain of the faculty College Bowl team to attendance at several parties held on campus underscore his interest in all facets of life at Westminster.

Beta Theta Pi again emerged as a diverse house, dominating many areas of campus life. Besides winning the Intramural Supremacy Award, they maintained a busy social calendar, highlighted by two new parties: Beta Country Club and an Alley Party. Recognized for their high scholarship, the Betas provided the 1982 SGA president and corresponding secretary, the president of Chaplain's Associates as well as the campus coordinators for the Big Brother/ Big Sister and Youth Escorting Seniors programs. Always service-minded, the Betas held a cancer drive and a see/saw marathon with the Thetas for the Leukemia Foundation. This year the Betas gained a large and varied pledge class and remained active in the school publications by providing the editors of both the Columns and the Blue Jay. Beta Roger Idel was presented with an Academic All-American Award and three Betas were selected for the 1982-84 Skulls of Seven. Steve Hughes served as president.

The men of Delta Tau Delta continue to grow and strive for excellence. The Delts reinstated their Little Sisters of the Four Stars program which involves approximately 20 women. They continued their participation in Serve. This program, coordinated by Ecumenical Ministries, entails taking food, fun and friendship to immobilized elderly in the Fulton area. Socially the Delts held up their end of the stick with Delta Queen and Yucca Flats ending in great success. This year they joined forces with the KA's in hosting two parking lot parties under the auspices of the SGA. Finally, besides winning the 1982-83 Don Gordon College Bowl Trophy, the Delts continued their favorite tradition of playing Ultimate Frisbee every day. Whether it be rain or shine, one always knows where to find the Delts!

Living with the bonds of a fraternal order may please some people on this campus, but the Independent Men illustrate that these bonds are not necessary to collegiate success. Residing in both Sweazey and the house next to Wetterau Hall, the Independent Men enjoyed college life to its fullest and prospered academically, as well. The men of Sweazey captured the basketball title with a team that was nearly unbeatable. This year brought to the men (and women) a new independent association, the WCIA, which several independent men chose to join and participate in. While these men enjoyed their new commitment, many others chose to remain completely independent. Along with these accomplishments, the Independents hosted a bar-b-que during Short Term that accompanied a Parking Lot party that was extremely successful and fun.

Like the men, not all women are part of a Greek organization. Some remain independent, and participate in activities through WCIA, Westminster Women's Association (WWA), and as women of the college. Once again this year the Independent Women put together the winningest game at Winter Sports Festival, thus their representatives became the new Bluejay King and Queen. They also joined efforts with the Thetas and the Kappas to hostess an open bar and snacks for Alumni Weekend in Wetterau Hall. The Independent Women were an intricate part of the new women's sports program, participating in volleyball, basketball, and softball with the Faculty, and the two sororities. Independent Women reside in both Wetterau and Wiegler Halls, and thus remain in close contact with the sororities which serves to create a general closeness among all women.

The brothers of the Kappa Alpha Order compiled a very successful year in nearly all aspects of campus life. They once again emerged at the top academically for the men of Westminster and they also added a sizeable group of new initiates to their ever-growing numbers. Their social calendar was highlighted with hits like the Parking Lot Party, KA Open, and Nathan Bedford Forest. Their major social event, Old South was a grand success, beginning with the scenic Lawn Party and finishing with a fun-filled weekend at Bennett Springs State Park. The KA's continued their support of Muscular Dystrophy with a road block during first semester. They also added the Greek Games crown to their list of accomplishments during Short Term.

The women of Kappa Alpha Theta wrapped up a record year - their second on campus. Thetas were involved in SGA, Chaplain's Associates, varsity sports, publications and many honoraries. The chapter raised money for its national philanthropy with a see/saw marathon with the Betas and adopted the Missouri's Girls' Home as its local charity. They also established themselves as Friends of the Churchill Memorial and continued a tradition of great parties ranging from a Fall Hayride to a Christmas Formal and Endless Summer. Leigh Ogle and Kathy Maloney served as chapter presidents.

The Kappa Kappa Gammas once again took the campus by surprise by winning the English Cup, the award given to the living unit with the highest G.P.A. for the year. Aside from high scholarship, the Kappas participated in many campus organizations including Chaplain's Associates, varsity sports, and the WC/WWC drama program. The Kappas kept service a priority by cleaning Truman Lake Park with the Delts during first semester and an Easter Egg Hunt for the area children in the spring.

To raise money for their philanthropy, the chapter sold May Day carnations. The Kappas social calendar was highlighted by the Kappa-Theta Winter Formal, a winery tour and picnic and Kappa Cruise. The Kappas also created the banner that took first place during Greek Games week. All-in-all the Kappa Kappa Gammas participated all over campus all year long.

phi delta theta

The Phi Deltas, with the addition of a new pledge class, sailed through another year with style and enjoyment. In keeping with their reputation, the Phi Deltas attempted to have parties whenever possible, all the while remaining an upstanding group. The Phi Deltas sport individuality, yet work very well together as a team, as can be seen by their participation in nearly every sport on campus. The service aspect of the Phi Deltas was recognized at the awards ceremony, when they were presented with the Drosten Cup, the award for the chapter with the most service outside it's own chapter, and is one of the most coveted awards presented. The Phi Deltas were one of the few chapters on campus participating on the yearbook with Bob Moser as Faculty section editor. During Short Term it was natural to see the deck being used to its fullest extent.

One hundred percent was the goal for the men of Phi Gamma Delta. They gave one hundred percent in everything they did during the 1982-83 school year. And in the end it all paid off for them. The Phi Gamma Delta Pledges were all initiated together and they also went on to win the Pledge Class Cup for their excellent academic work as a unit. Even though the numbers are not quite as large as in the other houses on campus, the Fijis hold their own in every aspect of campus life. Their week of work preparing for Fiji Island really paid off in the end, culminating in a great weekend. The Fijis also hosted several SGA parties where much of the campus met to have a good time. Sam the Dog still can be seen all over campus as he furthers his education by sitting (or lying) in on many classes.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was in the midst of a year of rebuilding, helped by a strong pledge class and increased alumni support. The SAEs were busy with service projects including a very successful bloodmobile, an annual community sponsorship, and participation in the CROP Hunger Walk. They also had a year of fun with a fall full of open, weekend parties and a spring which included two successful rush weekends and some old favorites such as Paddy Murphy and the Boxer Rebellion.

The Sigma Chi's celebrated a great year with winning the intramural football championship and made immense inroads in the Student Government association by providing the president, recording secretary and the convocations co-chairman. The Sig Chi's enjoyed a successful rush, recruiting new members from a variety of areas of the nation. Along with many SGA parties the Sigma Chi's held several of their own, each a great time for everyone. They concluded the year with Tear the Roof Off at the Lake of the Ozarks, which was a very good time for all. Sigma Chi's could be seen roaming all over the Fulton Country Club golf course all during Short Term, finding the sport very much to their liking.

Their little sister organization, the Lil' Sigmas continued to grow in strength and numbers. The girls enjoyed supporting the guys in their efforts to grow stronger.

The Churchill Quadrangle was again alive and filled with freshmen this year. The freshman class was smaller than in the previous two years and seemed to have fun together as a group. The year started off with a "big bang" and a round of parties that included the entire class. Following the first week of orientation, rush, classes and "good bye mom and dad" experimentation, the quad settled into a normal routine. However in October a bomb scare disrupted the routine and forced the frosh out of their new abode for a few hours. Little time was wasted by the refugees though in building a bonfire, and celebrating with a keg. All in all, the freshmen in the quad seemed to enjoy their new setting and the "Westminster experience."

ticket to ride

The Bluejay soccer team, playing under the leadership of Coach Hamdy Salem jumped to a fast start but was soon cut short by academic trouble and injuries. Eventually the squad finished with a 2-9-3 record. For the second year in a row David Milligan led the team in scoring. The season was highlighted by a victory over William Jewell College, and senior goalie, David Judge's tryout for the Olympic team. According to Coach Salem, the team must build for the future by implementing several systemic changes. These changes include demanding greater commitment to the team by students, athletes and the administration.

In its second season the volleyball team, coached by Harold Flynn, showed marked improvement and finished with a 9-11 overall record. The team grew in cohesiveness and confidence in addition to displaying a more aggressive style of play. Leadership for the women was provided by team captain Carole Teller. The seasonal highlight for the Lady Bluejays came with the defeat of William Wood's volleyball squad in one game of a 2 out of 3 match.

The Westminster tradition of fine cross country teams was upheld again this year. However, an injury to senior Peter Jude, and the young composure of both teams prevented full development of their potential. According to Coach Ault, senior Barth Winkler presented the picture of dedication which he hoped his harriers would mature into. Both men's and women's teams fared well in competition, each sweeping to first place honors in the Southwest Baptist Invitational. Individually, two of the women's team members, Katy Murphy and Sarah Maginnis, placed among the top ten at the District Meet, and Barth Winkler gained entrance to the NAIA National Meet by placing second at District.

Head Coach Andy Fisher, in his first year at Westminster, led the Bluejay basketball team to its best record since the 1976-77 season. The roundball team was built around a core of underclassmen, Scott Woepke and Randy Moss being the only seniors, that matured throughout the year and capped the season with a six-game winning streak in February. Furthermore, the 14-14 overall record included a conference won-loss count of 7-5, producing a third place finish in the Ozark Collegiate Conference. Following the season junior forward Roger Idel was selected to the prestigious Academic All-American team in honor of his athletic (leading scorer and rebounder for the team) as well as his scholastic achievements.

As with the other spring sports, the major opponent which the Bluejay's track team faced this year can be summarized in one word - WEATHER. Guidance for the team was provided by Coach Richard Ault, inspiration was provided by senior Barth Winkler. Barth dominated the distance events throughout the season. His college career was capped with first place finishes in both 3 mile and 6 mile races at the District Meet. Other bright spots for the track team include Bob Granger, in the hurdle events, Scott Boswell, in the triple jump, and George Satterlee in the discus.

The Lady Bluejay's track team lit a bright light for Westminster Athletics throughout both indoor and outdoor seasons. Pacing the team were Laura Miller and Delores Stewart. The former dominated the long jump and hurdle events, winning both the long jump and 110 high hurdles at the District Meet. Delores, on the other hand, swept both 100 yd. and 220 yd. dashes in the same meet. Overall the team completed a highly successful season. Honors for the women included the District NAIA Indoors Championship, a first place finish in the Illinois College Invitational Meet and a second place finish in the District Outdoor Championship

The baseball team was derailed in mid-season by the illness of Coach Harold Flynn, despite the efforts of Jesse Revels and Ken (Hooter) LuGrand to fill the void. However, despite the disappointing official results (6-2), the Bluejays succeeded in many ways. Their bright spots included Craig Fallon's .339 batting average, the fielding of John (J.R.) Robinson, and the 1-hitter thrown against Washington University by freshman Craig Stefanczyk. Above all it must be noted that the team had a lot of fun, and that seniors Alex Sheyko, Rick Klann, Mark Morris, and Tom Rupkey will be greatly missed.

The Bluejay men's tennis team struggled against unpredictable spring weather to a 4-7 record. Biology professor, turned tennis coach, Warry Williams directed the team. Two juniors, Mike Perez-Mesa and Brooke Hawkins, anchored the team. Through the season improvements in the tennis facilities were made and at present the tennis courts and equipment are in the best shape ever.

The Lady Bluejay's tennis team was handicapped by a small team and a small schedule. Coach Warry Williams guided the team to a 1-2 record, the solo victory coming against Culver-Stockton. Senior Jamie Ogden locked up the number one position while her sister, Missy, held the number two position.

The Westminister Sharpshooters, coached by Sgt. Major Reid Rosario, tallied a record of 73-19 against the likes of Penn State and Texas Tech. Leading the team was junior Allen Ray who maintained an average of 510.14.

The golf team sloshed through a rainy spring, directed by Coach Andy Fisher. The linksters paced by senior Mark Archambault, won a triangular meet in Fulton and placed fourth in the Lincoln Tourney.

westminster athlete of the year

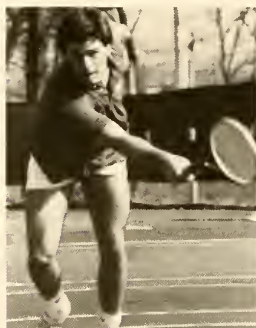

“the ugly duckling became a beautiful swan”

Is this an appropriate beginning for an athlete who “brought-up” the rear for his first two years at Westminster College? In his junior year he improved and ran faster, but his performance level was to jump dramatically on Saturday, April 9, 1983, at the Principia College Invitational. On that day, Barth Winkler said he was going to better his personal best for 10,000 m - 32:30.0. When the race was in its third lap, it became evident that Barth was going to have a fine day - First Place and a winning time of 32:19, 11 seconds faster than his personal best. The next meet was the “MULE RELAYS” at Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg, Missouri, Friday, April 22. It was a quality field of distance runners from many Universities and Colleges of Missouri and Kansas. Barth was magnificent - improving on his personal best times for two, three, four, five and six miles on his way to a third place finish of 31:28.2 for 10,000 m. The first five place finishers all broke the former record of 32:17.0. In the span of one month, Barth ran 62 seconds faster than he ever had before.

Our District Championships were held at William Jewell College on Saturday, May 7. Again, Barth led the field in both the six-mile championship race and the three-mile. It took four years of dedication, but excel he did. Westminster’s “UGLY DUCKLING” showed the “WORLD” that the beautiful swan is in all of us if we commit ourselves to excellence.

The rough pre-season tournament, which was won by the Sigma Chis, set the pace for the hard hitting regular season to come. Several injuries incurred during the tournament sparking the administration to advise the students to wear mouthpieces for the remainder of the season.

In the "A" league, during regular season play, the Sigma Chis looked to be the team to beat. Having an agile four year veteran in their back field, the Sigs stymied many defenses. The Sigma Chis ended the season in second place. The Betas depth and diversity proved to be superior in the end, giving them only one loss to the Sigma Chis.

In the "B" league, the Sigma Chis went undefeated with a seven and zero record. The strength the Sigs showed in both the "A" and "B" leagues won them the intramural football title, but they only finished half of a point ahead of the Betas.

Tom Klaess scrambles to dodge his opponent completing a first down for the Sigma Chis.

What can you say about the job that Alex undertook a year ago? Being intramural director is quite a large job: organizing all the teams, referees, and anything else that needed organizing. This proved to be a rather demanding job for the "keg-on-legs." All in all, the year went smoothly. Sure there were a few bumps here and there, but what can you expect when organizing 500 different men. Alex retained a cool temper (which might have been difficult at times) and solved problems in a way which was satisfactory to the teams involved. Alex Sheyko, better known as the "keg-on-legs," I tip my hat to you and your performance throughout the school year. I also would like to give my best wishes to Mike Jakaitis who will be the intramural director for next year. Good luck Hokgiel

This past year someone failed to pick an intramural athlete of the year, so the Bluejay staff decided to pick their own. Our choice for the 82-83 intramural athlete of the year is Pat Canning. Pat played major roles in basketball, football, volleyball, and softball.

His attitude on the field is something which we should all take notice of. Besides, he paid me fifty bucks to do this, no, I'm just kidding. Pat is an athlete in the true sense of the word.

a last reach into the intramurals of the past

As we look back at the 82-83 Intramural season we see each living unit possessing their own outstanding athletes. We have seen individuals work as a team and teams work as individuals. We have tasted victory and choked on defeat. We all say that we are playing just for fun, but we know that it's competitive spirit that keeps us going back for more. Everyone enjoys winning but if we don't we enjoy giving it that college try. We all strive for the intramural supremacy trophy, but only a few can enjoy this accomplishment. We can only admire our efforts and look forward to the next year of intramurals. Let us hope that the same sportsmanship is shown on the field next year as was this. Let us have fun, but more importantly let us have a good year in sports!

As construction of the 1983 Blue Jay yearbook continued, so laborers forged ahead in creating the 'new' Tap Room. As the press date draws nigh a controversy is beginning to swell concerning the identity of the Tap Room. The owners of the New Palace Hotel claim that although they have given the T.R. a face lift, it remains the original. However, the former owners protest that they have transferred the atmosphere to a new location, House & Wiler ...

Having only just begun their classes at Westminster, the freshmen were subjected to a new experience: Interfraternity Rush. While rain and passing traffic on Westminster Avenue may have put a damper on the rushees' spirit, IFC Rush proved to be as exciting as ever. After four days of visiting houses, 124 men had "spiked" or been offered bids. Tensions eased into jubilation as the fraternities and their new pledge classes rallied on the Hill.

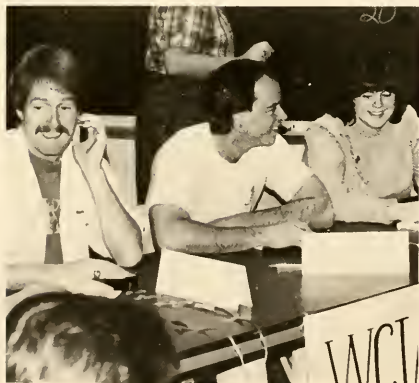

The following weekend was Panhellenic's turn as the Kappa and Thetas rushed their first pledge classes. Having spent weeks in preparation for the event, the sororities held their "open houses" at the Phi Delt and Sigma Chi houses and their skit and preference parties at Robertson Dining Hall. The Weekend was hectic and exciting for all women involved.

college bowl

It was a test of intelligence, wit and speed as the living units battled in the 14th annual Donald B. Gordon College Bowl. The Deltas emerged victorious after beating the Phi Deltas in a tough final round. They also won a championship round against the faculty making them the overall victors. P.S. Thank You Louis! It keeps Harvey and the faculty humble.

ROTC was very strong again this year with several new faculty members and a strong showing of new students. Led by LTC Hedgepath, and aided by SGM Rosario, MSG Zaglauer, SFC Greene, MAJ Stokes, Captains LeGrand, Plusa, and Cornett, ROTC had a busy year highlighted by participation in Secretary of Defense Weinberger's visit in early March. It was an extremely visible group with the familiar rappelling off of Coulter Science Center, weekly inspections on the hill, and the ever-present khaki green. They also disappeared for many weekends of training and field exercises. This May three students, Sam Boyce, Pam Hurt, and Adetunji Joda, participated in Army Reserve Commissioning Ceremony held in the Churchill Memorial.

The Winter Sports Festival was held again in February to raise money for intercollegiate athletics. Sponsored primarily by the SGA, the activities included a casino party in Robertson Dining Hall, a basketball game at which the Blue Jay King and Queen candidates were introduced, and a party sponsored by the WCIA. Like last year, the Westminster Women's Association netted the most profit at the casino party. Their candidates, Judy Mummert and Mark Goddard were crowned Blue Jay Yearbook King and Queen for 1983.

concerts and speakers

Maya Angelou, a lady of many talents, and a wonderful entertainer is currently a writer for 20th Century Fox. She is now working on her first film effort, "Sisters, Sisters". She has also written an autobiography.

Owen B. Butler, chairman of the board of Proctor and Gamble Co., delivered the 1982 IBM Lecture. Mr. Butler has been with Proctor and Gamble since 1945, when he started as a sales representative. He became chairman of the board in January of 1981.

Above: Professor Sir John Plumb of Cambridge University was knighted by Queen Elizabeth in June, 1982. He is a writer and historian who has published his own works as well as assisted Sir Winston Churchill's. Left: Louis Simpson is a Pulitzer Prize winning poet, distinguished biographer, and widely published essayist and critic. He has written more than six volumes of poetry and is the recipient of the Prix de Rome, and the Guggenheim Fellowship.

Charles Gusewelle has worked with the KANSAS CITY STAR since his graduation from Westminster in 1955. He has travelled for the STAR and specializes in Polish politics. He is currently the author of a column which appears in the STAR.

William Gass is a widely acclaimed novelist and essayist who has been a member of the Philosophy Department at Washington University since 1971. He has received many honors and was named one of the 10 best Midwest American Writers.

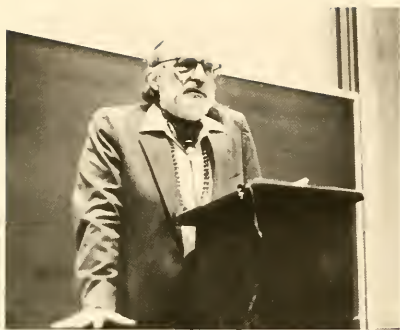

Joseph Granville has become a legend in his own time as stock market action continues to bear out the startling accuracy of his predictions. He is regarded as the high priest of stock market analysis with correct predictions since 1974.

Comedian A. Whitney Brown is a man with a well-honed sense of the ridiculous. He uses a combination of juggling tricks and deadpan comedy to entertain people everywhere from busy street corners to television audiences to Westminster.

Dr. Duane T. Gish is associate director for the Institute for Creation Research in El Cajon, CA and a renowned writer and lecturer on Bible-science subjects. His lecture was entitled "The Scientific Evidence for Creation."

Dr. Langdon Gilkey is a Professor of Theology at the University of Chicago Divinity School and has taught there since 1978. He spoke on the Religion-in-Life topic, discussing the theological aspects of Creation/Evolution.

The Honorable Caspar W. Weinberger, U.S. Secretary of Defense, spoke to Westminster College on March 11. Joining a long list of distinguished people that have spoken for the John Findley Green Foundation Lecture, Weinberger spoke on the present and future defense policies of the U.S., paralleling our current situation with that of Winston Churchill's time. He was appointed by President Reagan on January 20, 1981 after having held several offices during both the Nixon and Ford administrations.

What the Greeks do on Priest field can hardly be compared to the contests of strength beneath Mount Olympus. For one day the campus "Greeked-out" - goldfish were swallowed, pies eaten and beer chugged. Even the inclement weather couldn't dampen the high spirits of the participants, especially the Ka's who were deserving of LAURELS-well, a plaque had to do.

student government association

The Student Government Association continued supplying the campus social life by sponsoring parties at fraternity houses and bringing movies, speakers and concerts on campus. In September the Ozark Mountain Daredevils performed and, as part of the SGA - Faculty Concert and Lecture Series, Joe Granville, Maya Angelou and A. Whitney Brown appeared. Under the leadership of President Jim Flink, the SGA continued trying to respond to the needs of students.

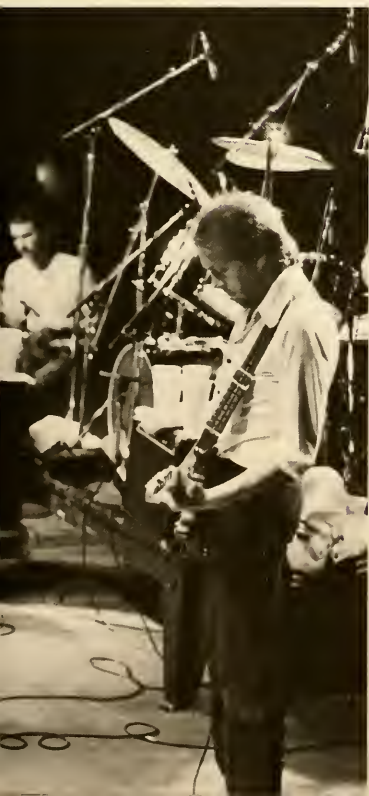

With an inexperienced Executive Committee, the SGA was a sounding ground for student complaints and ideas for activities. Plans were made for an all-school formal and campus escort system for women, and other suggestions for improving student social life were introduced.

The SGA is composed of two representatives from each campus living unit and a five-member executive committee, elected in March.

Clockwise: Freshman Mac Brown won first place in the SGA - sponsored Talent Show; Woody Herman appeared on campus and the Ozark Mountain Daredevils performed in Champ in September; The Executive Committee included (row 1) Brian Boatright, Jim Flink, Jon Jones, (row 2) Mark Campbell, and Bryan Parrish.

publications board

The Publications Board, a subsidiary group under the SGA, was a seat of controversy this year. Under Chairman Bryan Parrish, Pub Board spent most of the Fall semester settling a salary dispute with the 1981-1982 Blue Jay editor. On the brighter side, it managed to push through an amendment to the SGA Constitution providing for binding contracts for future editors. The role of Pub Board is to oversee the publication of the Columns and the Blue Jay. There is no term for membership.

student judiciary board honor commission

Combatting plagiarism, wandering eyes and ghost writing, the Honor Commission quietly settled the year's disputes between the students and faculty. Meanwhile, dealing with controversies outside the strictly academic area, the Social Judiciary Board kept busy. Chief Justice Chris Davis lead her merry brethren in ruling on various infractions of campus rules and student disputes.

student foundation westminster ambassadors

These two groups are concerned with Westminster's appearance - how the college is viewed by visitors and prospective students. Westminster Ambassadors provide many services from being college representatives and campus hosts, to acting as ushers. The 46 members of Student Foundation work with Admissions by giving tours to prospective students, joining the staff on recruiting trips and helping arrange housing for the prospectives on Senior Days. This year's Student Foundation coordinator was Randy Warner. Members are selected by application.

The Chaplain's Associates again offered religious activities for Westminster students including Wednesday evening Bible studies (Koinia) and Communion services and Sunday evening vespers. The annual CROP Walk was held in October, and in March, the Religion-in-Life Week focused on the creation/evolution controversy. In Short Term, they held a Campus Awareness Day. Also part of the program at St. Mary of Aldermanbury, is the Chapel Choir, directed by John Stormer. Chosen annually by application, the Associates were led by Jim Gordon.

Imposing order on seven fraternities and maintaining good relations with the Hill kept the InterFraternity Council busy. Following Fall Rush, the IFC used its judicial power to settle a rushing dispute between two houses. The IFC, in cooperation with the Panhellenic Councils of both Westminster and William Woods, planned and sponsored Greek Games in Short Term. The IFC is composed of two representatives from each house, the house presidents and four officers. Rick Klann served as this year's IFC president.

Setting up its first Formal Rush, coordinating the use of a shared chapter room, and holding its first Rush Weekend in March were big responsibilities for Westminster's Panhellenic Association in its first year. The Kappas and Thetas combined forces for a Winter Formal and a conference with a National Panhellenic delegate. The Panhellenic Association is composed of a delegate from each sorority and four officers. Andrea Maddox served as president of the Association.

It hosted two SGA parties in Weigle Hall and a Short Term party in Robertson Dining Hall. In February the WCIA held a raffle as a fund raiser. Bob Koch served as the first president.

The Foreign Students Association consisted of twelve students and served as a central organization in helping them adapt to Westminster. This organization is sponsored by Peter Kim, professor of political science.
